This is a fast paced, page turning historical thriller from an award winning author of the genre. Set in 1939 Krakow the story follows Wehrmacht Captain Bora investigating the murder of revered nun Mother Kazimierza, who has been under inquiry by the Pope's envoy for her power to foretell the future. As the investigation progresses, the tensions between the occupying forces and the Church build against a brilliantly described background where Bora investigates the ravages against Polish farmers by advancing German troops , the setting up of the Jewish Ghetto, partisan activity, and the daily life of an occupied city. Cracking.
